November network update Salt is boosting your connection!

What do Unispital Zürich, the University of Lausanne and Muolen (SG) have in common? Great connection rates and access to Salt's newest network technology.

Indeed, earlier this year, Salt upgraded several antenna sites around the above-mentioned places. This has allowed for significant improvements of the network quality – both in terms of coverage and speed.

The targeted deployment of the low frequency band allows us to offer an even better connection to our customers. The aggregation of low frequencies with existing high frequency bands – this is the definition of the so-called 4G+ technology – permits Salt to offer a distinctly faster transmission rate with a theoretical surf speed of up to 300 MB/s.

Furthermore, and as evidenced in a Kassensturz's broadcast from November 8, our customers holding an unlimited subscription invariably benefit from high speed connection without volume or speed limitations.

Overall, Salt has already upgraded or retrofitted more than 450 antenna sites with low frequency bands. In addition we equip newly built sites with low frequency capacity where it makes sense technically.

The range of the 800 and 900 MHz bands being higher than for high frequency bands, the indoor coverage of our clients will automatically improve together with the above-mentioned quality enhancements of the network.

Last but not least, we are very proud to have participated in the equipment of the Gotthard base tunnel with the latest LTE technology and our network performed well during the opening ceremony in June 2016. As of December 11, 2016 – date of SBB's official timetable change and entry into service of the tunnel – it will be made available to all our customers.
