January Network Update

Salt No. 2 in 4G Mark and reaches now 98% of the Swiss population with 4G!

Salt has reached a new level in terms of 4G coverage, which is now available to 98% of the Swiss population. This great achievement is a result of the massive and continuous investments over the last years into our network. During 2017 we have built and upgraded many existing sites resulting in a total of 897 network operations. This represents an increase of 46% compared to the previous year, notably targeting low bands for further improved in-house coverage.

All those efforts are made to address our customers' needs and we are happy that our efforts are honoured in the 4GMARK mobile performance test. The test results show a steadily increase over the last months and we have surpassed Sunrise and are ranked second in December 2017 and confirmed such ranking in January 2018. This clearly illustrates Salt's determination to put customer experience at the heart of its network strategy, we remain the only Swiss Mobile Network Operator providing full-speed 4G+ access to our entire customer base.

We work hard and deal with any challenge in order to ensure great continuity of service for our customers. This winter, our field force teams spent many hours to clear the snow off both our antennas and control stations, which sometimes reached up to four metres in height. This was key to secure mobile communications in sometimes fairly remote areas – where several valleys were completely marooned for several days.

The two storms which hit Switzerland during January requested significant effort by Salt's field force. They spent several days clearing enormous quantities of snow off antenna sites.

Salt also upgraded several existing antenna sites with 4G+ technology. In December, antenna upgrades took place in Delémont, Trient (VS), St-Sulpice (VD) and in the old town of St.Gallen, where Salt customers will now perceive the great technology upgrade.
